Customised Subdomain and Complete Website Integration

Sell tickets to your audience using Eventfinda, with your look & feel, keeping your customers where you want them – on your website!

Eventfinda gives you the option of integrating our complete ticket purchasing and shopping cart facility into your website. You can sell your event tickets via a custom subdomain that maintains the look and feel of your brand, requiring minimal web development. Your team may even be able to implement it themselves!

Watch your sales multiply with a single pool of tickets selling through multiple sales channels: your website and Facebook Page, as well as Eventfinda's highly trafficked event listing site, Eventfinda.co.nz.

Eventfinda's streamlined functionality promotes your event and sells your tickets from one centralised platform, with event detail delivered through multiple corresponding platforms automatically.

Expand your audience reach, helping your marketing budget go further.

Multiple sales channels and promotional opportunities.

One system to administer, facilitate, and report on your activities.

Clean, simple and user-friendly - for you and your audience.

We reduce the number of clicks between browsing your event and making a purchase, removing barriers to buy for your customer. Simply select the session and ticket type, enter contact and payment details and make purchase. No need to create an account or leave your current screen. Eventfinda is mobile-optimised too.

Data that goes further

The long-term success of any arts organisation is dependent on the data you generate to build your audience. Eventfinda keeps the power in your hands allowing you to retain complete ownership of the data you gather on your audience, their needs and habits. Uniquely, ticketing with Eventfinda includes valuable marketing support, leveraging the extensive data of our in-built audience, collected by us to help you sell your tickets!
